At St Jerome's Primary School, our vision for learning is built on a foundation of unity, purpose, and excellence. We are a committed and caring team, united in our dedication to delivering high-quality education that meets the diverse needs of every student. We believe high-quality education requires the flexible use of a range of pedagogical approaches, recognising that the right strategy is chosen for the right purpose, guided by evidence on how students learn. By combining these approaches as needed, we can create an educational environment that prepares students for the complexities of the future.

To bring this vision to life, we believe ...

- In a Christ-centred, holistic approach to teaching and learning. High-quality education requires the flexible use of a range of pedagogical approaches, recognising that the right strategy is chosen for the right purpose, guided by evidence on how students learn.
- Student wellbeing is at the heart of learning. A culture of care, connection, and mutual respect empowers students and staff to thrive, grow, and succeed together.
- All students can achieve their personal best. High expectations, equity, and a belief in each student's potential drive meaningful learning and academic success.
- In a shared responsibility for student learning. Strong collaboration among staff, students, and families fosters a consistent, inclusive, and supportive learning environment.

- That teaching with clarity, consistency, and passion makes a difference. Common language, explicit instruction, and engaging pedagogy help students take ownership of their learning and achieve high outcomes.
- Students thrive when they are active partners in their learning. Student agency, voice, and co-construction of their learning journey build confidence, independence, and motivation.
